

The Heathrow Express is the fastest, easiest way to get between central London (Paddington station) and Heathrow Airport. Trains are express non-stop services, departing every 15 minutes, seven days a week.

Board any train on your selected travel date. Services run every 15 minutes 05:00-23:30 daily. Avoid expensive taxis (average $65) and traffic stress.

General information

Getting to Heathrow's other terminals

Use Heathrow Express trains for a free transfer between Heathrow Central and Terminal 5. This quick, convenient service runs every 15 minutes and the journey takes about three minutes.

Heathrow Central is between Terminals 1 and 3, which are a few minutes' walk away via underground walkways and are signposted from the platforms. The Terminal 5 rail station is in the basement of the terminal and linked to check-in and arrivals by express lifts.

Alternatively, the 441 and 724 buses provide a free transfer between the terminals, taking 10 and 20 minutes. The N9 night bus, which runs between 23:55 and 04:55 (times vary at weekends), also takes ten minutes. Services stop at the Terminal 5 bus station (next to the terminal) and the Heathrow central bus station (between Terminals 1 and 3).

Please be advised, bus service 441 travels from Terminal 4 to Heathrow Central and also from Terminal 4 to Englefield Green. The front of the bus will be clearly marked with its destination, but if you are unsure, please check with the driver.

Whatever your destination, Heathrow Express can help you plan a seamless journey.

Reservations are not required, just board the next departing service.

Please note date of travel can be changed but amended date can only be after original nominated date of travel.
