Extra information

London Travelcard Option

The transport option that comes with the London Pass, if you choose to buy it, is the London Underground Travelcard. This allows you unlimited travel, within the times and dates specified, on most of the public transport available around London. To start travelling, your London Pass and Travelcard simply need to be valid, signed and dated, and then you're off!

Where The London Travelcard is Valid?

Your Travelcard will get you to every attraction covered by the London Pass, even Windsor Castle which is outside the normal Zones 1-6.

For Windsor, simply show the ticket attendant your valid Travelcard accompanied by the London Pass, and he or she will let you travel - a special treat just for London Pass customers!

The Travelcard will be accepted on the following services:

- London Underground trains
- Transport for London buses
- Docklands Light Rail
- Over-ground trains within zones 1-6
- Tramlink
- First Great Western travelling to Windsor

When The London Travelcard is Valid?

Your Travelcard will be date stamped on issue to reflect the days it is valid for. Please ensure you have selected the correct start date for your London Pass as your Travelcard will have the same start date. If you are collecting it in London your Travelcard will be date stamped when you pick it up.

The following validity rules also apply:

- 1-day Travelcards (off-peak) can be used from 9.30am Mondays to Fridays, all day Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays, on each day of validity and for any journey that starts before 4.30am on the day following the expiry date.
- 2 and 3-day Travelcards (off-peak) can be used from 9.30am Mondays to Fridays, all day Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays, on each day of validity and for any journey that starts before 4.30am on the day following the expiry date. They are valid for use on consecutive calendar days only.
- 6-day Travelcards can be used at any time during the period of validity and for any journey that starts before 4.30am on the day following the expiry date. Plus, when you buy a 6 day-London Pass with travel you get a 7th day of additional travel, FREE!
